Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Monday 03 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Becoming wet, windy for most but drier, brighter far north.

Today:
Cloudy with showery rain already into the southwest becoming heavier and more persistent, spreading to much of Scotland by early afternoon. The far north will stay mostly dry, bright. A cold day with east or southeast winds becoming strong.

Tonight:
Cloudy with further showery rain and hill snow, most persistent across eastern Scotland. Drier, clearer interludes over Shetland and sheltered parts of western Scotland. Fresh or strong northeasterly winds.

Tuesday:
Rather cloudy, showery start to the day. Drier, brighter weather with sunny spells over Northern Isles will extend southwards later in morning and during afternoon with a few showers following.

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Cold, showery theme will continue for the rest of the week with some sunshine. Showers wintry over the hills. Northerly winds becoming lighter and still a frost risk at nights.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.